WE NOMINATE

Marvin Leonard Goldberger, one of the perceptive physicists of his time and an increasingly important figure in the study of pressing environmental problems in this country, who in the summer weeks ahead enters upon his new duties as Chairman of Princeton University's Department of Physics. Succeeding his colleague, Robert L. Dicke, this 47-year old native of Chicago, Ill., is a tenure member of the Institute for Advanced Study as well as the Eugene Higgins Professor of Theoretical Physics in a department of teaching and research that stands alone when it comes to advancing man's knowledge of the world in which man struggles to survive.

A nuclear physicist with the Manhattan Project during World War II, Goldberger in recent years has focused his research on problems of high-energy physics. An authority on quantum field theory, he has made notable contributions in this area, primarily in the so-called dispersion relations enabling one to make general predictions of the way elementary particles interact. In years gone by he received a Fulbright Award to lecture in France on the theory of dispersion and was singled out by the American Physical Society for the $2,500 Heineman Prize and a diploma for outstanding achievement in the field of mathematical physics.

Last summer, under the auspices of the National Academy of Sciences and the National Academy of Engineering, he co-chaired a 61-member Environmental Study Group which made recommendations for the design of institutions to manage the environment and studied environmental problems in southern Florida. It was this task force that proposed to turn the sprawling Big Cypress Swamp, immediately north of the 1,300,000-acre Everglades National Park, into a 500,000 acre "water conservation district" where all development, including a proposed jetport and even residential or agricultural use, would be barred from the subtropical swamplands.

Goldberger, a member of the President's Science Advisory Committee from 1965 to 1969 and currently serving on a blue-ribbon panel appointed by President Nixon to recommend reforms in the operation of the Department of Defense, has never hesitated to "speak his mind" on what he considers matters of moment. Some two years ago, as American science was beginning to feel the impact of budgetary rollbacks, he attracted national attention with his warning that this country's long-standing leadership in physics would "very likely" pass to the Soviet Union and Western Europe.

A member of both the National Academy of Sciences and the American Academy of Arts and Sciences, Goldberger, whose wife, the former Mildred Ginsburg, worked miracles as director of the Princeton Junior Museum, joined the Princeton Faculty in 1957 after seven years at the University of Chicago. He was graduated from the Carnegie Institute of Technology and during World War II was closely associated with Princeton Nobel Laureate Eugene P. Wigner, then on leave to serve as director of theoretical physics at the Metallurgical Laboratories in Chicago. Goldberger was a member of the Wigner-led team that did the principal design work for the great atomic pile at Hanford, Washington.

For his distinctive contributions to modern theoretical physics; for folding into his crowded career distinguished service in a variety of organizations ranging from professional societies to the Federal Government; for providing strong leadership in the long-neglected, but all-important, area of environmental studies; he is TOWN TOPICS' nominee as

"THIS IS ON MY MIND"

"Mailbox" Overflows. Letters to the Edtor, which have been arriving in TOWN TOPICS' "Mailbox" in unprecedented quantity since early spring, this week set a new mark for both volume and variety.

There was a need, Princetonians felt, to be heard on a wide range of topics and they spoke their minds in highly articulate fashion. Nearly a dozen are reprinted below; space for all that were received could not be found, and those who write in the future are asked to be as concise as possible in order to make space available to as many correspondents as possible.

There is a need, one writer reports, for correcting "the insane flow of traffic" at the Penns Neck Circle, and he enlists other drivers' help in persuading the State to take the necessary action. In West Windsor Township, too, disapproval is expressed in another letter of certain policies of the new supermarket at Princeton Junction.

A woman who lived on John Street in Princeton was dispossessed, and the facts which led to such action are reported by Mrs. Karin Slaby, executive director of the Princeton Housing Authority. Another letter takes those who use the flag as a symbol of support for President Nixon severely to task, while others comment on subjects ranging from teenagers' exemplary behaviour at the Garden Theatre to tributes for service rendered by Msgr. Edward Henry of St. Paul's Catholic Church and James B. Campbell, Jr., retiring Township Police Chief.

This week's "Mailbox" holds these thoughts:

Shall We Turn Back the Clock?

To the Editor of Town Topics:

I am puzzled. I have seen a lot of two flags recently, and it is difficult to tell one from the other.

The first flag consists of 13 stripes and 50 stars. It stands for one nation, united, searching for freedom. Anyone hearing this flag is saying that he agree with the ideas of freedom upon which this country was founded.

The second flag, which bears a remarkable resemblance to the first, is the Nixon flag. Anyone who bears this flag is saying that he agree 100% with Nixon's foreign and domestic policies.

The first flag is about 190 years old; the second is less than one year old.

This, then is the problem: Since these two flags appear so much alike (in fact I can not tell the difference), how does one tell if a person bearing this flag is supporting America or is supporting Nixon?

Since the flag of America was first, it seems to me that the people who support Nixon should design another flag. Since they may not want to go to the trouble of doing this, I have done it for them.

This design would consist of one vertical line, crossed in the middle with a horizonal line of equal length. From each end of each segment would be a shorter line, at a right angle to the longer segment it connects with, going in a clockwise direction.

I realize that this has a resemblance to the flag of a certain European country in the 1930's and early 1940's. Since the political beliefs of this country and the Nixon supporters are similar (strong dislike of communism, condemnation of left wing student revolt, general repression of those that disagree with them, etc.), it is my belief that this flag would be their ideal. Maybe they just haven't thought of it yet.

Let the Children Decide.

To the Editor of Town Topics:

As a parent of a 6th and a 7th grade child, I, too, received a copy of the letter sent to parents by Mrs. Frank Quinby. I have kept the letter in my possession for over a week before putting down my thoughts about it on paper, because my interpretation differed so from hers.

In my mind, there is no doubt that some of the language used was in bad taste, and certainly most of the points could have been made in a more acceptable manner. The criticism that this presentation should have been more carefully screened by the teacher advisor supervising this project, perhaps, also has merit.

The information I gathered from looking into the background of this matter indicates that it was toned down quite a bit before release. Therefore the teacher involved is certainly not completely remiss. Some may disagree with the amount he required to be changed but should not disagree with the fact that he was on the job.

The important point is that the script has some good content, original ideas, clever phrases and a real point to make. Many of us may not agree with these ideas. I don't agree with all of them myself.

To say that they should not be written and spoken is the thought that I find distasteful and unrealistic. Well-meaning people have written me well thought-out letters saying they did not want their children exposed to such performances in school. I can't believe that these very same children don't read these very same ideas in newspapers and their editorials and hear them on television and from their friends in school.

It would be naive to think that children, even of this age group, can not decide for themselves what they think of these ideas. We should certainly encourage them in this exercise. This is, in my opinion, one of the most important bases of modern education.

"Who Is to Blame?"

To the Editor of Town Topics:

Your readers may be interested in hearing about the events that led to the recent action of the Township Health Officer in connection with the house at 265 John Street, the owner of which has been instructed to either refurbish the property or tear it down, according to a press report of the last Township Committee meeting. This story should be called "Justice Triumphant," or some similarly fanciful title.

This house was owned until July, 1965, by a Princeton resident, who lived there with her daughter, at that time 11 years of age. She had inherited the house from her father, and had lived in it all her life.

Some time prior to 1965, she had contracted with a firm to install combination storm windows throughout the house. The installation was never completed, due to the fact that the windows that were installed were of a poor quality and improperly attached. She refused to continue payments until the job was properly completed, and so informed the company.

In the meantime the company had turned over its interest to a bank, which, as only financial wizards and readers of very fine print can understand, was not responsible for the completion of a proper job, but was interested in collecting its money. The bank therefore finally turned the matter over to a collection agency from where in due course it reached the Sheriff's office.

The lady and her daughter were eventually evicted from their house, and it was sold at a Sheriff's sale to a Trenton businessman who at the time owned and ran another business in the neighborhood.

The legal aspects of this case are confusing, and apparently nothing was done which was not legal (and which makes the outcome all the more unjust). There is no doubt that at some early point this lady could have taken some action to forestall being deprived of her home, if she had been sufficiently knowledgeable. Being completely innocent of the ways of legality and "justice" she only knew that she had not received what she had agreed to pay for, and therefore was not going to pay for it.

By the time others heard about it, it was in the hands of the Sheriff, and the legal aid she was finally directed to a-

Community Gardens

Borough and Township officials will meet Monday night to discuss Phase I of the master plan for Community Gardens Park, designed for the north side of Route 206.

Totalling $320,000, the package includes a pond and multiple use playfield, amphitheatre, picnic grounds, nature area and boat rental area. If approved in its entirety, the five-phase master plan would cost almost $2.9 million.

greed it was very sad, but, too late."

So now we have a house which is uninhabited, uninhabitable, vandalized, a neighborhood nuisance and an eyesore and a family who had to live in makeshift circumstances for well over a year until they were finally able to obtain their own small apartment, and who have received no recompense at all for their house.

This type of thing happens every day, to people who can least afford it, and who know better than most, that the law can be a poor substitute for justice and humanity. And who is to blame? Aren't we all?

Penns Neck Circle Hazardous.

To the Editor of Town Topics:

I have sent the following letter to the N. J. State Division of Motor Vehicles.

ROBERT M OLESNEVICH
Village Road
Dotch Neck

A spectacularly dangerous situation exists at the Penns Neck Circle (U.S. 1 and Washington Road. Penn's Neck), especially each night at about 5 p.m.

There are two lanes of Washington Road traffic (coming from Princeton) converging on the circle where they meet as many lanes of U.S. 1 traffic entering the circle. Four lanes of traffic choke this circle and attempt to go thru it and re-enter the two laned Washington Road S.

I strongly suggest that an engineering survey be conducted to correct this insane flow of traffic. I suggest, as an immediate interim measure, that arrows be painted regulating the lane flow of traffic into the circle. (I contacted the West Windsor police who informed me that in the present unmarked condition, the flow of traffic cannot be regulated and "violators" therefore cannot be impeded!)

The ideal condition would be to install a second set of lights halting Washington road traffic until those exiting U.S. 1 travelled thru the circle.

I am sending a copy of this letter to local newspapers urging everyone concerned to write you urging immediate corrective measures."

If you are concerned about this traffic problem, I urge you to write: State Division of Motor Vehicles, Engineering Division, 25 S. Montgomery, Trenton, N. J. with information copies to West Windsor Township Committee and West Windsor Chief of Police, S. Mill Road, Princeton Junction, N. J. 08550.

Bad Reactions to New Acme.

To the Editor of Town Topics:

I am curious if you have had any reactions to the new Acme Market on Hightstown Road in Princeton Junction. My own experience has been rather disappointing, and casual discussions with others have led me to believe that this store leaves much to be desired.

On occasion I have noticed that the store sold eggs the day after the date stamped on the end of the carton. Many people do not take the trouble to read the date on the end, and in any event, this is not stamped too clearly. What is clearly printed on the carton is the statement that eggs should not be accepted after the date stamped on the end.

Also, I have had the unpleasant experience of purchasing what was labeled as chicken livers, and which turned out to be calves liver. The manager was good enough to exchange the calves liver (after searching through the paper cartons for some time to find a package which was not similarly mislabeled), but it seems to me that certain other ingredients which I had previously purchased that day for use in the preparation of my dinner should also have been given me.

The value of onions and mushrooms was very little, and these were certainly overdone by the time I returned to the store for the exchange of the chicken livers, returned home and was ready to continue making dinner for a husband and child who were very hungry by this time.

It seems to me that if an automobile company inserted a faulty component in the car I was driving, and the failure of this component resulted in an accident, I would be entitled to more than the value of the faulty part, but rather in an equitable settlement to reimburse me for injuries and damages which were a result of the accident. The manager refused to reimburse me for the onions and mushrooms, which I therefore had to repurchase in order to be able to start dinner a second time.

Other grievances which have come to my attention are the lack of a customer scale near the meat counter, and the fact that all vegetables are packaged in cellophane (or plastic, or whatever), on a non-transparent tray.

Perhaps it would be interesting to get your other readers to write in about any experiences they have had at this Acme Market, and perhaps these grievances could then be brought to the attention of the Township Committee or other appropriate group in the area.

NO CHIEF IS NAMED

Steiner Officer-in-Charge. In no hurry to make a very difficult choice, Township Committee has delayed for several months its selection of a new chief of police to replace James B. Campbell Jr. Instead, Committee appointed Lt. Richard V. Steiner as officer-in-charge of the department, effective July 1.

Lt. Steiner was given the title in accordance with departmental regulations, which put him ahead of Lt. Frederick M. Porter Jr., on the basis of seniority in rank. Lt. Steiner was promoted to his present rank in 1961, Lt. Porter in 1968.

Mayor John D. Wallace said that a decision would not come before late fall, but definitely before January 1. A letter to members of the Township police force from Joseph R. Nini, informing them of the Committee's action, stated that "Committee will shortly begin a process of selection to fill the office of Police Chief, for which both Lieutenants Steiner and Porter will be considered.

"As far as I'm concerned, we have two candidates," Mayor Wallace said. "Either one would make an outstanding police chief."

TOP COP — PRO TEM: Richard V. Steiner has been named Officer-in-Charge by Princeton Township Committee while it defers making a permanent appointment for police chief until late fall.

"We will proceed with a great deal of care in this matter," the mayor emphasized. "Both are young men, and the one who becomes chief could remain in the post for more than 20 years."

Eighteen Years of Service. Lt. Steiner, 40, who has been in charge of the department's administrative work, joined the force in 1952. He worked as a juvenile officer (without the title) and was promoted to sergeant in 1956.

He attended Princeton High School and Rutgers University and is currently working toward an associate degree in police administration at Rider College. He lives at 19 Marion Road East with his wife and three children.

Lt. Porter, 44, also joined the force in 1952. He was given the title of Investigator in 1958, and handled all Township Police investigations until 1961, when the Detective Bureau was organized. He was promoted to sergeant the same year.

He then headed the Detective Bureau until 1968, when he was promoted to lieutenant and placed in charge of all uniformed personnel and field work.

A graduate of Overbrook High School in Philadelphia, he has attended numerous police schools dealing with narcotics, detective work, principles of command, "search and seizure," community relations and other police matters. He was named "Cop of the Year," by the American Legion Post 76 in 1968. A resident of 202 Birch Avenue, he is married and has one daughter.

INCINERATOR IN TROUBLE

Alternatives Studied. Princeton's incinerator, built in 1934 when pollution was just a word in the dictionary, may not be able to meet stricter state standards set to go into effect August 15, and could be forced to shut down.

The immediate problem lies with a device known as scrubbers, which have been installed in the plant to enable it to meet the new state code, but which are not doing the job. The scrubbers help to control the amount of fly ash that is emitted into the air when the incinerator is charged.

Mayor Robert W. Cawley reported Tuesday that the firm responsible for their installation has readily admitted the failure of the device, and is trying additional methods to make it work. "We had a guarantee from them that it would meet state standards," Mr. Cawley observed.

In the long run, a new plant may be the only answer. The Joint Sewer Operating Committee for Borough and Township may have Metcalf and Eddy prepare a study on what a new plant would cost. First to be determined, before this can begin, is the cost of the study itself.

The incinerator has had additions and modernizations in its 36 years, but is generally "in pretty poor shape," according to Mr. Cawley. "I expect that a new and more efficient incinerator will be the recommendation of the study," Mr. Cawley commented.

The Borough's partner in the garbage business, the Township, is also concerned with the incinerator's problems. Mayor John D. Wallace at his press conference Tuesday said that all options on this must be explored, mentioning a regional incinerator as a possibility.

When it meets this Thursday, the Sewer Operating Committee will also explore the possibility of using the Ewing incinerator, a modern plant built just five years ago, and operating at less than capacity at the moment.

However, definite problems on the transportation of garbage from this area to Ewing would have to be solved first. Both Borough and Township and private contractors use numerous small trucks to pick up garbage, and the Ewing plant could not accommodate them.

If the worst happens and the state does order the present Princeton incinerator closed, Township Administrator Joseph R. Nini estimated that the town would have about three to five years to landfill capacity.

$200 IS STOLEN

From Parked Car. A gray cash box containing $200 was stolen Thursday evening between 7:10 and 7:47 from a locked car parked at the Princeton Shopping Center.

Miss Beth A Branham, 18 N. Green Avenue, Hopewell, told police that she had gone into Bamberger's and when she returned, the cash box was missing. Pfl. Mario Musso investigated.

The same day, Zelma Teague of Trenton had $40 stolen from her purse while inside Cenerino's Cafe at 57 Leigh Avenue. She told Pfl. David Potts that she had taken her wallet out of her purse to give a friend some change. She left her purse open. A short while later, she looked for her wallet and noticed that it was missing.

TV Set Stolen. In the Borough, Robert Driver, 2 Nassau Street, notified police Thursday that a $130 television set had been stolen from his apartment.

Police said that the front door of Mr. Driver's apartment had been forced open.

HOME IS ENTERED

On Rosedale Road. The home of James Fitzpatrick, 486 Rosedale Road, was entered last week through an unlocked rear door between 11 a.m. and 1 p.m.

Taken, police said, were a 21-inch television set, a tape recorder, two radios and a small amount of assorted jewelry. "The house was not ransacked but anything in the open of value that could be sold they took," Detective Samuel Bianco reported. Pfl. David Potts made the initial investigation.

tributed to me. I simply do not recall ever complaining about waiting at the barber shop; in general the service I received in Princeton barber shops has been very good.

What I meant to say — a commonplace matter among economists that is easily documented — is that the prices of personal services such as hair cutting, historically, have risen more rapidly than the prices of manufacturers.

We have data going back to the Edict of Diocletian (301 A.D.) to confirm this. The reason, of course, is that in personal services there is little room for mechanization and automation. Really, I was not complaining about the rise in the price of haircuts. On the contrary, I was trying to explain why rising service prices cannot be blamed on those who supply the services.

Praise for Chief Campbell

To the Editor of Town Topics:

As a long time resident of Princeton Township, I am distressed over the retirement of Chief Campbell at 59, a fine, dedicated public official, who has developed a Police Department recognized as the most noteworthy among comparative New Jersey townships.

With the national crime rate soaring and a summer when "hope deferred maketh the heart sick," it would seem a most unfortunate time to switch Police heads.

Teenagers' Behaviour Praised.

To the Editor of Town Topics:

Well over a hondred teenagers and perhaps ten over thirties attended yesterday evening's early show at the Garden Theater. The youngsters may well have been a high school class; they certainly all knew each other.

After all we had heard about teenage problems in Princeton, we were a little hesitant about joining the queue, which reached halfway down Vandeventer. It was quite a confrontation!

First of all, they tried to insist that we go up to the head of the line, so that we could be seated quickly. Then, there was no jostling or horseplay in the line, just quiet, happy chatter. They were all shapes and sizes, some of them beautifully dressed, some of them not, but all of them clean and brushed.

In the theater they found seats quickly and stayed in them. Even though the lights went out while they were still filing in, they continued quietly finding places. And throughout the movie they continued to display beautiful manners.

We could hear and see the entire picture without being disturbed by any irresponsible "smart aleck" behavior. The only disturbance at all was some good natured whooping out-of-doors, where a new queue was forming for the second show — a noise which stopped immediately.

Neither of us can remember having, in the past ten years, such considerate, mannerly companions at a theater. Our very heartfelt thanks go to these young people, and our most sincere congratulations to their parents and teachers.

Thursday, the Man said, warming up to his subject, will be hot and humid. Showers are a possibility, and Friday may be just like Thursday.

But Saturday! Fair, no more than seasonably warm, and low humidity. All of that should hold through Sunday, he reports.

Who needs sparklers with a weekend forecast like that?

Farewell to Msgr. Henry.

To the Editor of Town Topics:

When Monsignor Edward C. Henry arrived in St. Paul's parish in 1950, he found a freshly decorated church building with a vibrating, waxed linoleum floor, poor heating in the winter, and no refuge from Princeton's summer humidity.

A modest, turn of the century convent home for the Sisters of Mercy and a sturdy, over-painted rectory for the priests comprised the remainder of the grounds.

In 1956, after the old buildings were demolished, there arose a splendid, modern air conditioned convent with chapel, and a new rectory. On March 24, 1957, the bronze bells brought from Annecy, France by the late Arthur Bigelow then Bellmaster of the Princeton Graduate School's Cleveland Tower, resoundingly pealed the glad tidings of welcome to a modern, American Gothic air-conditioned edifice. Today it stands as a durable testament to all parishioners who financially helped its completion.

We, as parishioners, are indebted to Monsignor Henry for his achievement in molding St. Paul's, with its buildings and attractive landscaping, into one of the dynamic parishes of the Trenton Diocese.

A wise and empathetic counselor to all and endowed with a compassion for the ill and the elderly, Monsignor Henry has requested that he continue his priestly vocation and life of service as a chaplain, devoting his energies to the needs of the senior citizens of Morris Hall and to the convalescents in the new, adjoining St. Lawrence Facility in Lawrenceville.

In tribute to his accomplishments and with gratitude for his spiritual guidance as a pastor, we wish Monsignor Henry well as he undertakes his new duties.

Parents Committee Grateful.

To the Editor of Town Topics:

Traditionally, Princeton High Seniors have a party after the Senior Prom. This was started several years ago to encourage students to remain in Princeton to have fun after the dance. It has proven to be a successful venture.

This year the party was held at the Princeton YMCA the night of May 29. It would not have been possible, however, without the generous contributions of the below listed community spirited business and organizations. We would like to publicly thank them for their donations which made this a memorable, safe and happy occasion for all of our seniors.

Thanks to Princeton H. S. PTA, Montgomery Township H. S. PTA, Lion's Club of Princeton, Lion's Club Ladies Auxiliary Princeton, Princeton Bank and Trust Co., First National Bank of Princeton, Thorne's Pharmacy, The Cellar, Children of the American Revolution and H. P. Clayton Dry Goods.

Topics Of The Town

Nearly 1,000 Sign Petition. Opponents to the planned 11-story office building on Mount Lucas Road have raised nearly 1,000 signatures for their petition to Township officials.

"Nine out of ten people we stop are in back of us," Mrs. Scott Nielsen of 387 Mt. Lucas Road said Tuesday. "A lot of people just come right up to us and ask 'where do we sign?'" Petition centers were set up in the Princeton Shopping Center and at Palmer Square.

Originally a neighborhood protest from Mt. Lucas and State Road residents, the petitions now include residents of all parts of the Borough and Township. Mrs. Nielsen said. Rocky Hill residents have posted a petition in their local post office.

The opponents intend to attend the Township Committee meeting on Monday at 8 p.m. in Township Hall and the Borough-Township Planning Board meeting on Tuesday at 8 in Borough Hall.

Rezoning Asked. The petitioners are asking the Township to block construction of the Tower and any other office buildings in the area. Most of the signers want the land rezoned from service to residential.

Designed by the firm of Collins Uhl Hoisington Anderson of 33 State Road, the 11-story, 90-ft. square Tower would be built on an 11-acre site, with parking for "over 500 cars" according to the published prospectus. Ten floors, each containing 7,050 sq. ft. of space for corporate and professional offices would be available during 1971. Construction cost is estimated at $3,000,000.

Points at issue center on ecological damage to the area and the traffic that 500 or more cars would add to narrow, winding Mt. Lucas Road and the already over-used State Road. Black-topping space for 500 cars will distrub the ecological balance, opponents say, where at present the trees hold 90% of the water. The land on upper Mt. Lucas road is a thin layer of top soil over a rocky base.

Opponents also note that Princeton Executive Park, planned for the east side of Mt. Lucas just above Ewing Street, also provides for another 500 cars, according to Mrs. Neilsen's estimate.

"You have to think about the reverberations of what you plan to do," she said of the proposals.

Protest Meeting Held. Some 25 residents of the area affected met Tuesday night at the home of Dr. Hans Rosenhauph of Mt. Lucas Road. It was agreed that every effort to block construction of an 11-story building would be made and that an attorney would be retained if necessary.

Plans are to work toward limitation of any office building in the area to three stories and to hold the number of cars parked there to 300. A major goal of those interested also is to retain the ecological balance of Herrontown Woods. Assistance in the campaign is to be sought from the Hillcrest Association.

ROUND 3: JULY 16

To Debate over Inn parking. With the end not in sight, the third round between Joseph M. Boyd and Princeton University over where parking for students at the Princeton Inn dormitory should be located will be heard July 16 at 8 p.m. in Township Hall.

At issue is where to locate 74 parking spaces that the university must provide when it decided to build a three-unit addition between the Inn and an employees' dormitory. To park that many cars, Jon Hlafter, Director of Physical Planning for the University, testified that an area about 120 feet wide and 200 feet long is needed. A flat area of that dimension is not readily available near the Inn.

When parking cannot be provided on site, zoning laws require that it be located within 100 feet of the lot. The University would like to locate the 71 spaces in its Faculty Road lot which is 2700 feet away from the front door of the inn to the corner of the lot — just over a half mile. At present, 291 spaces in the 695 space capacity of the lot are vacant.

So far, only witnesses for the university have been heard. It is being represented by Frank Reiche. Seymour Montgomery, attorney for Mr. Boyd, whose home at 152 Alexander is located between the Inn and the Faculty Road lot, announced that he intends to present three witnesses in his client's behalf at the July meeting.

Why Faculty Road? Inasmuch that the University had plans approved last December which showed parking on site, Mr. Montgomery wanted to know what were the compelling reasons that forced the university to change its mind. John F. Moran, General Manager, Planning, Plant and Properties for the University, the last witness in the three and a half hour meeting, summed up the basic reasons for locating the parking on Faculty Road.

First, he said, the peripheral parking plan for students (of which the Faculty lot is a part) is designed to limit the use of cars during the week. "We felt that a parking area next to the Inn would enhance the temptation to use the cars parked there, adding to the traffic in town."

Second, he continued, "since the spaces are available, it seems a shame to create parking on or about the Springdale golf course. Three, it would be difficult to do number two because of the topography of the course near the Inn; aesthetically it is not pleasing to add blacktop to a golf course. Mr. Montgomery did mention a fence, but there are two sides to a fence."

Mr. Montgomery earlier had pointed out that if the University followed one of three alternative suggestions — striping the cars along Alexander Street, the parking would be hidden from Alexander by a fence of poison ivy.

Increased Traffic Seen. To park at the Faculty Road lot, Mr. Montgomery said would add to the traffic on Alexander, encourage students to cut through private properties on their way back from the lot to the Inn (there are eight residences on the east side of Alexander Street between the Inn and Faculty Road) and tempt students to park on the East side of Alexander, where all night parking is permitted and over which the university has no control, than at the lot farther away. Mr. Montgomery also feared for the safety of the girls who would have to walk from the lot to the Inn.

"Aren't you concerned about their safety?" he asked a number of times. Mr. Reiche replied that if it became a security problem the university would take the necessary steps to see that all girls with cars park next to the Inn. About 100 of the 320 students who will live at the inn will be girls. How many of the 100 would have cars is not currently known.

Alternative Sites. As alternatives, Mr. Montgomery suggested the University provide parking next to the Inn or use part of the Springdale Golf Course which the University leases to the golf club.

Land adjacent to the Inn slopes away at grades ranging from 7.5 to 10 percent. There would be a problem of excessive runoff of water and ice in the winter, testified J. Robert Hillier, architect of the inn addition. "It would not be a gargantuan problem to level it," Mr. Montgomery stated. "It would be a gargantuan problem," Mr. Hillier replied.

John F. McCarthy Jr.

Glen B. Miller Jr.

Plans to move farther out and use part of the golf course drew quick replies from the university officials. "It would mean shortening the 16th hole to a par 3 and would weaken a course that does not have any strong holes to begin with," Mr. Moran said.

Along the west side of Alexander, the University currently leases 60 parking spaces to companies across the street. "If we took over those leases it would create a hardship for the companies and they would have to provide their own on-site parking," Mr. Hlafer testified.

CAHILL NAMES McCARTHY

To Investigation Commission. John F. McCarthy, Jr., Princeton lawyer, was named this week by Gov. William T. Cahill to the four-man State Investigation Commission.

The appointment was made to fill the vacancy created by resignation of SIC's chairman, William F. Hyland of Cherry Hill. Another member of SIC, Glen B. Miller, Jr. of 243 Russell Road, is expected to be named to succeed Mr. Hyland as chairman. A corporation lawyer with Johnson & Johnson in New Brunswick, Mr. Miller has been with SIC since its formation in the late '60s. The commission is charged with investigating organized crime in New Jersey.

Mr. McCarthy is a senior partner in the Princeton firm of McCarthy, Bascik, Hicks and Dix. A Democrat, he crossed party lines last fall to campaign for Mr. Cahill's election as governor. He lives at 80 Westcott Road.

TWO ARE FINED $15

In Traffic Court. Two Princeton area residents were each fined $15 in Borough traffic court Monday for failing to display a name on their commercial vehicles.

Judge Theodore T. Tams Jr., levied the fines against William H. Labaw of Highway 206, Belle Mead, and Donald E. Stitt of Jeffers Road, Plainsboro. Both pleaded guilty.

The state has suspended for 30 days the license of Peter W. Schreiber, 39, Honey Brook Drive, for speeding.

VARIANCES ARE DENIED

For Detached Garage. The Borough Zoning Board last week denied the variances which the Rev. Nicholas B. Van Dyck, 2 Queenston Place, needed to erect a detached garage on his property.

The board ruled that the applicant had failed to prove exceptional hardship or show that the proposed garage could not be located in accordance with zoning requirements.

School's Over, But the Dialogue Lingers On; Open Forum Debates PHS Curriculum Changes

"The problem isn't so much the specific curriculum at Princeton High, it's what can an individual do if he feels a change should be made?"

That was the theme, as set forth by Richard Magee, of the second "Open Forum" on Princeton's public schools, held last week at Community Park School to discuss "Curriculum at the High School."

The next regular Forum, to be held Wednesday, July 8, will consider "Communication." Meetings begin at 8 p.m. and are held in the air-conditioned library at Community Park. All are open to the public.

About 40 people attended last week. Tension and high-voltage tempers have characterized recent formal school board meetings, but this gathering was easy and low-key, even when people disagreed. The participants sat in a loose circular forum, dressed in sandals and sport shirts. A general, unbuttoned kind of informality prevailed.

The 40 participants represented all variations of opinion on Princeton's public schools, and almost all generations as well. Steve Margolis, a 1970 graduate of the high school, presided.

Half a dozen students were there, along with Superintendent Philip E. McPherson; PHS principal Florence Burke; Dean of the Faculty Frank Soda; Guidance Counsellors George Petrillo and Ethel Thomas; Robert Arbegast, faculty member of CASA (Committee of Action on School Affairs) and David Carr of the English faculty.

Procedure Planned. Earlier, a sub-committee had met at Mr. Magee's home to plan the curriculum discussion. This group consisted of Jean Hunter, student at the high school; Clifford Kuhn of the class of '70; Hassler Whitney, parent and mathematician; Mrs. Loren Johnston, who was a school board candidate this year; Steve Margolis and Mr. Magee.

A student, a teacher and an administrator should make statements on curriculum, the committee decided, then the audience should speak.

ON STEERING COMMITTEE: Mrs. Loren Johnston served as a member of the committee planning topics to be discussed on the high school's curriculum.

"Both students and faculty should have a say in curriculum, but so far, the students haven't," began Clifford Kuhn.

"Teachers say it's difficult to effect curriculum changes," he continued, "but there should be constant evaluation of the curriculum, and students are qualified to help."

A work-study program, at the new Independent Study is good because it reaches kids who are "turned off," he said, adding that Independent Study could be pursued outside the school.

He charged that the quality of teaching at the high school varies widely according to the kind of class. "An 'honors' teacher gets the best 'honors' students," he stated. He told the forum that he realized on graduation day how many classmates he had never even heard of. "Maybe they were in my home-room or in gym, but so many I'd never seen! This is bad!"

He said curriculum should concentrate on today's conflicts: war, race, inflation.

Sophomores Reply. David Carr, the teacher speaker, told the gathering that he had asked 140 students what questions were most important to them. "Almost all sophomores replied," he reported, "and they asked vital questions. Only about half the seniors replied. I wonder why? Didn't they trust the teacher? Did they feel questions weren't important?"

Sophomores posed such questions as "How long can you trust someone?" "What causes validity?" "Why is time the way it is?"

Seniors asked, "What is the purpose of my life?" "Am I just like my father?" "Is Darwin's theory true?" "What does 'free' mean?"

"Questions, you see, should be asked by students, not teachers. Every student is his own curriculum and every student has his own style of learning. All we can give kids is — how to deal with the unknown. We must free them from texts, teachers and schools."

Frank Soda, administrator, described curriculum changes at the school over the past 25 years, starting with the introduction of German after World War II.

Of the 35 new courses added last year, he said, 11 were for the non-college-bound student, but he admitted difficulty in recruiting students for courses like Business and Industrial Education. "I wish we could get some academic students into those shop courses," he added.

"There's inequality in the departments at the high school — many are progressive, but some are not," he conceded. He told the forum that students had made "tremendous contributions" to the new Independent Studies program. Mr. Soda spoke of one student on the point of becoming a drug-out, who was introduced to a local artist. They worked together, in Independent Studies, and now that student is going to become an art teacher.

There is need to draw in all kinds of students, speakers agreed.

"I recall some proposed English courses that were much too academic" Mr. Soda twitted Mr. Carr. "Kids should have been involved in discussions on these."

"Business" English. He spoke favorably of a new course "for kids not interested in Shakespeare." It's "english for the Working World" and will deal with job applications, inter-office memos, patient descriptions.

But Mr. Carr shook his head. "The kids who will take 'Working World' are the ones who feel too inferior to soeak in regular English classes, and this class will only reinforce their feelings of inferiority."

Mr. Carr said he didn't like English honors classes for a similiar reason; they destroy the balance of a class by removing its most intellectually oriented members. "I believe kids can teach kids — the intellectuals and the others can learn much from each other."

Mr. Soda said that, in its early days, the strike this spring was led by an isolated, highly-intellectual group of students. Discussions were almost paralyzed by insistence on fine semantic distinctions or narrow parliamentary legalisms.

"Then we got each home room to elect two representatives and we held big meetings where these representatives could express themselves, and it was splendid. We must do more to bring more students together!"

How! But all the talk about curriculum skirted the edges of Mr. Magee's central question: "How do you get changes made?"

Miss Burke explained that there were no "1-2-3-4 steps." The normal channel is a request for a new course from a teacher, to the department head. If he says "no," then the request goes to the Dean of the Faculty, on to the Principal, the Superintendent and, eventually, the board.

She added that requests for new courses might come through CASA, or student planks on Student Association day. Administrators would want to know how much actual interest there was in the new course and whether it could get the required state approval.

"Driver education at the high school is essential!" exploded Mrs. Melvin Benarde. She told the group she had long tried unsuccessfully to get practical driver education courses into the high school, "but there's no department to initiate this new course!"

"Put the dollars behind it and we'll do it," Miss Burke replied.

Dr. McPherson explained that, although driver ed. wasn't in this year's tight budget, there was no reason why substitutions couldn't be made.

Talk of driver's education touched off a lively discussion of priorities, and a brief sparring between those two old antagonists, the practical education and the liberal arts education.

"Give these kids a strong basis in practical subjects," said one mother firmly. "All this talk about asking questions — how can kids know what they want before they have the basics?"

She advocated such courses

as basic law and consumer education.

Mr. Soda defended teaching the cultural heritage. He spoke of a student — it had penned to be young Kuhn — who had pondered the meaning of hypocrisy during the student strike by reading Machiavelli in the original Italian.

"Minis". Mrs. J. Stuart Hunter proposed "mini courses," brief, six-week courses without credit, which could be given "any time in the week."

Students could drop out if the course proved unfruitful, or join in "mid-term" if it sounded exciting. She reminded the forum of a similar "course" in computers now going on after school hours, with students teaching one another.

Mr. Soda replied that the high school's curriculum committee had been investigating mini courses at the time of the strike this spring.

But always the forum togged back to the same question — "how do you get a new course accepted?"

Course Rejected. Young Kuhn told of his request for a math course in Logic and Game Theory which was turned down by the math department.

Miss Burke said the course could be tried experimentally for four or five students. "If we had a room and a teacher. But we've got to take care of the courses we already have."

Mr. Arbegast reported that CASA had made a suggestion which was rejected by the math department. He said CASA sent a report to Miss Burke. She told the forum she planned a meeting shortly on the matter with the math department.

The school doesn't necessarily have to continue existing courses, Dr. McPherson said, and he hinted that there were idle departments with no students for the teachers to teach.

"We might train those teachers for driver ed.," he suggested.

"But how DO you get ideas across?" Mr. Magee persisted.

"Students need to know what the mechanism is," said Steve Margolis.

"The school board is the only visible target," Mr. Magee pointed out, "but I think we've worked too hard on the board in the past. Suppose the math department, for example, held a public meeting to hear suggestions from the community."

"Priorities are a gut issue," Dr. McPherson observed. "I think decisions on curriculum should be made close to the action — by students and teachers. How about a 'Student-Teacher Senate' open to the public, where parents could lobby?"

Miss Burke referred to the new elected Representative Council, to consist of six students and six teachers. One from each group will sit with administrators. "They will have only an advisory voice," she said but, "it will be a very loud voice."

ROAD REPAIR REPORT

One Done, One to Come. The Borough has finished work on the repair of lower University Place near the Penn Central Station, and expects to begin work on Cleveland Lane with in the next couple of weeks.

Mayor Robert W. Cawley commented that the Borough decided to only repave part of the street, instead of the total area as originally planned, because of the University's future plan for this area.

NEW HOME IN SIGHT

For Princeton Red Cross. The Princeton Chapter of the American Red Cross is just one step away from selling into new office headquarters at 182 N. Harrison Street on the corner of Franklin Avenue.

Last week it received a favorable recommendation from the Township Zoning Board to Committee that a use variance be granted. The proposed building, a 2,482 square foot home now occupied by Dr. Howard Unangst, is located in an R-6 zone that does not permit office use. If Committee goes along with the board's recommendation, it will mean the end of a five year search by the Red Cross to find larger headquarters.

On its own, the board granted the Red Cross three variances — one for 13 off-street parking spaces, one from an ordinance that prohibits parking in a side yard — in this case, two spaces — and a front yard variance when it was discovered that the house had been built two and a half feet closer to the front line than it should have been.

John Hoff, chairman of the Princeton Chapter (the first to be licensed in the state in 1918), testified that the chapter's present office located at 71 University Place, which it leases from the university, did not have adequate space. At $4,000 a square foot on Nassau Street, real estate costs in the central business district were prohibitive, he said, forcing the Red Cross to look elsewhere.

Several in the audience spoke in favor of the application — Austin Macauley, 188 N. Harrison; H. Huntington Bliss, 18 Dorann Avenue, and Professor B.W. Bates, 10 College Road. "The Red Cross runs a trim, quiet ship," said Professor Bates. "In 16 years," he continued, commenting as a neighbor to its University Place location, "I've come to look upon them less as an organization and more as a family."

In fact when attorney Samuel Lambert for the Red Cross turned and asked how many in the audience were there in support of the application, some 30 persons rose.

One was opposed. Vehemently opposed. So much so that twice board chairman William Geddes warned her that if she didn't stop interrupting those who were trying to speak he would have her taken from the room.

Miss Rosalie Frank, 194 North Harrison, told the board that before she had purchased a home in Princeton less than two years ago, she had carefully checked zoning. "I thought I was getting in a residential neighborhood," she said. "I'm not opposed to the Red Cross; I'm opposed to anything coming in not residential."

"I've been Taken." Then turning to the audience she asked: "Do you approve of that property coming off the tax rolls? When they all murmered 'yes', Miss Frank got up and left the room, muttering: "I've been badly taken by Princeton."

Earlier, Mr. Lambert had stressed that in the neighborhood there were a number of non-residential uses. There were seven doctors in the immediate area, he said, Nassau Arms, an apartment complex hes across the street.

In another decision, the board granted Mrs. John G. Williams, 350 Franklin Avenue, a variance to conduct sewing classes at her home.

However, it attached three conditions. Her classes were to be conducted between 9 a.m. and 7 p.m.; no more than three could attend the class at one time; and the variance has to be renewed each year.

Withdraws Application Anthony Nini, owner of Nini Plymouth, Route 206, who had requested permission to locate a 50x12 foot trailer on the used car portion of his lot later withdrew his application.

He needed the trailer as a temporary office for a salesman, he told the board, after continuation of Herrontown Road to 206 had bisected his property. Bringing the customers back and forth across the road between his offices and the used car lot created a hazardous condition, he told the board.

"LET US HEAR FROM YOU"

McPherson Invites Comment. "Any and all suggestion" for improving Princeton Regional Schools will be welcome this summer, Dr. Philip E. McPherson, Superintendent, said this week. He indicated that he is "setting as a high priority for the next school year a renewed effort in communications concerning schools," but urged Princetonians who wish to be heard "to write or call any member of the staff working this summer."

He commented:

"In reflecting about the past school year, particularly the last several weeks and months of the year, we have all realized that there has been an unusually high level of interest in the schools in Princeton this year. This could be observed, for instance, in the high attendance at Board meetings (and the Board's emerging plans for more public meetings); the response to Dr. Abrams' effort to talk with his fellow citizens; the active participation of parents in a variety of successful spring meetings held at individual schools; the increased interest of students in their own education; the many letters written to the Board, the newspapers and others; the establishment of a summer Wednesday evening forum; and in other ways as well.

"It is clear," he continued, "that some of the intense interest in the schools this year

NEW FIRM IN TOWN

"Communications Group, Inc." A new family of communications companies, in which every job will develop according to the talents of the person filling it, is now in the early growing stages at — appropriately enough — the New School for Music Study, 353 Nassau.

The Princeton Communications Group, Inc., is the parent. Head of the family and its founding father, is Loren Zissman, a research expert for 16 years, the developer and president of Caravan Surveys, an officer and founder of Response Analysis Corporation and a member of the Opinion Research Corporation staff from 1956 until early in 1969.

PCG, as parent, provides financing and guidance for the off-spring companies, co-ordination and planning, research and development and what Mr. Zissman calls, "philosophy and guiding principles."

So far, PCG has Story House, Inc., which creates films for schools, and Total Research, Inc., a "full-line research house." Affiliated companies are also part of the family, and one of these is PAHR, Princeton Associates for Human Resources.

. . . and Ahead? In the planning stage is a set of companies to provide consulting services for both the PCG cluster of firms, and outside firms.

"Growth Services," for example, will tell a client how to set up a new business and survive. ("You may have a great idea" Mr. Zissman points out, "but the mechanics are beyond you: office organization and equipment, accounting - bookkeeping procedures and so on.")

"You could organize Princeton Communications Group into 'divisions,' but we prefer these companies,' which will really be run by the company people, within the overall goals of PCG. We want a kind of corporate interaction," the founder says, "which will make each company do better, and the whole do better, as well."

For Education. Story House, Inc. is farthest along the line. It has already made a film for Educational Testing Service, and has produced pilot films for elementary schools, scheduled to be shown to some keenly interested publishers in mid-July.

"Sidney Brooks is producing these for us," Mr. Zissman says. "We will use original scripts, original art and music — all from top flight creative artists, like Sid."

Since film strips are original, a book-publishing venture could easily follow, plus toys and games.

Story House also has a series planned on children who live in many lands — "Child of Spain," etc. And the firm plans to use a full line of puppet actors.

Expansion into such fields as video-tape could be a possibility, when the price becomes low enough.

For Commerce. Total Research, Inc., is a custom-survey company, geared to provide a client with all aspects of survey research, to help him understand his users better, and, Mr. Zissman says, "even to aid in implementing survey results."

Consulting is a factor, and so is omnibus research. "Omnibus is a brand-new service," Mr. Zissman explains. "We'll take the top 20 metropolitan areas — or more. Suppose a national advertiser of beer or cola, say, finds it too expensive to get information on the actual user of his product. We propose a share-cost system: a number of different clients ask questions of particular interest to them in the same survey. This means lower cost to the client, a regularly scheduled data collection, and even syndication possibilities."

For Society. "PCG feels a social, moral and ethical responsibility to contribute to the total community in a manner that transcends profit-making," is a Zissman credo.

"Whenever we can, we want to use our data and our skills toward the solution of social problems. We might have a data-bank on social issues, for social scientists to draw on. Or the federal government might want information on those 20 metropolitan areas. Large national companies that are local employers, may want detailed information about a group of cities.

Mr. Zissman, with the sort of fertile brain that thinks up new companies as he talks about existing ones, is emphatic about the importance of turning creative people — and creative companies — loose in their own pastures.

"People in industry aren't being utilized properly because they're asked to fit into compartments already set up. If we deliberately try to have the job spring from the talents of the people, give more license for change, the future might be more exciting, productive and happy — though less predictable!"

Money. Mr. Zissman's prediction at the moment, is a five year plan for Princeton Communications Group which projects a sales volume of $12 million in year five, with pre-tax profits of $5,235,000 in 1975.

PCG was formed early in May of this year. It has three "official" employees: Mr. Zissman, Sidney Brooks and Marian Brooks. Consultants include marketing and management experts, statisticians, economists, sociologists and psychologists.

The firm is scheduled to acquire the lease for the New School for Music Study building on September 1 - the School doesn't need all the space the building provides, Mr. Zissman discovered. Eventually, he hopes to use a large third floor area for seminars and the technical equipment used in making films and tapes. The School itself will, for the time being, remain as a tenant.

ARCHITECT NAMED

For New Mercerville Bank.

The Hamilton State Bank has commissioned Jeremiah Ford III of the Princeton architectural firm, Walker, Sander, Ford and Kerr, to design a new bank building on Route 33, Mercerville.

Mr. Ford has had considerable experience in the designing of commercial and financial buildings. Some of his most recent projects are the drive-in bank of the Princeton Bank and Trust Company in Princeton and the new headquarters planned for the Princeton Savings and Loan Association. The latest bank project is expected to be completed by this fall.

PRESIDENT ELECTED

At Mideast Aluminum. Slover K. Hollister has been elected president and general manager of Mideast Aluminum Industries at the firm's annual stockholders meeting last month. He replaces Ray B. Sowers, who will continue to serve as chairman of the board and chief financial officer of the corporation. Mr. Sowers will work on long range planning and financial matters affecting the future growth of the company.

Gerry Bauer, one of the original incorporators of Mideast, was named senior vice president of all manufacturing and industrial relations. In announcing the changes, Mr. Sowers pointed out that the company must be youth oriented and led by dynamic managers in order to be successful.

A resident of Princeton, Mr Hollister joined Mideast in April, 1966 as vice-president, sales. In June, 1968, he became executive vice president. He had 10 years of experience in an executive sales position with a primary aluminum supplier prior to joining Mideast.

Also at the meeting, Mr. Sowers reported a 17% increase in sales for the company's fiscal year ending February 28, 1970. Net earnings increased to $93,577 or $.52 a share compared to $40,009 and $.22 a share in fiscal 1969. The rise was attributable to an extraordinary credit of $81,000 ($.41 a share) for federal income tax reduction from carry forward of operating losses from one of the company's divisions.

Currently Director of the Environmental Science Services Administration's Geophysical Fluid Dynamics Laboratory in Princeton, Dr. Smagorinsky was won of six winners of the first ESSA Awards ever given.

He was chosen to receive the $1,000 award for his outstanding achievement as a scientist and research leader in studies of the dynamics of the oceans and atmosphere. Both Dr. Smagorinsky and the Laboratory have achieved worldwide recognition for basic research in mathematical modeling of the atmosphere and the oceans.

A native of New York City, Dr. Smagorinsky graduated from New York University with a bachelor of science degree in 1947. He received his M.S. from the same university in 1948 and a Ph.D. in meteorology in 1953.

Dr. Smagorinsky joined ESSA as a research meteorologist in 1948. Since that time he has held several leading positions within the administration, becoming head of the Geophysical Fluid Dynamics Laboratory in 1955.

resulted from what some saw as problems or lack of appropriate communications related to one issue or another. But the overriding fact is that we have been reminded once again that the Princeton community is interested in the schools. We must always be grateful for this, respond to it, and capitalize on it.

"Accordingly, I am setting as a high priority for the next school year a renewed effort in communications concerning our schools. Administrators have already begun to hold planning meetings related to this priority effort even though we are now entering a period of heavy vacation schedules.

"Planning meetings of various kinds will continue through the summer and will involve citizens, staff and students. In August and early September, we will be suggesting specific plans for broader consideration. We will, as necessary, be rearranging some staff assignments in order to meet the requirements of this communications effort. In the meantime, any and all suggestions are welcomed. Letters or calls to any member of the staff working this summer are encouraged."

DRIVERS INJURED

After Cars Collide. Two women drivers were injured and their cars had to be towed away, following a collision Friday at 5:26 p.m. at College Road West and Alexander Street.

Patricia M. Golding, 57, Millstone Road, Cranbury, was released after treatment at Princeton Hospital where seven sutures were needed to close a laceration of her eye. She also suffered contusion of both forearms.

Janice L. Gleason, 19, of Hamilton Square who was ticketed by Sgt. John J. Bellow for failing to stop for a stop sign, received a slight concussion and contusion of the head. She was released from the hospital after treatment.

Miss Gleason told Sgt. Bellow that she had come up over a hill and did not know there was an intersection ahead of her. She added she did not see the sign at College Road. After impact, one of the cars snapped a Public Service pole into two pieces.

Exactly twenty minutes later, two cars collided at Chambers and Hulfish Streets.

Willie L. Bullock, 36, 108 Leigh Avenue, told police that his windshield wipers were not working properly and it was hard to see. Pfl. Victor Fasanella, in his report, confirmed that because of the faulty wipers, rain had steamed up Mr. Bullock's windshield sufficiently to obscure his vision. He charged him with careless driving.

As a consequence, the Bullock car struck another turning off Chambers onto Hulfish operated by Charles F. Martinson, 22, 8 Brookside Drive. Mr. Martinson sustained bruises and abrasions of the face. Both cars had to be towed away.

In the Township, an accident took place at the exit of the Princeton Shopping Center opposite Valley Road.

Theodore Kennedy, 58, 129 Birch Avenue, was stopped on the inside lane of Harrison waiting to turn left onto Valley when, he told police, a woman in the opposite inside lane waved her hand to signal him to cross in front of her. As he pulled past her, the right side of his car was struck by a car coming in the outside lane which he could not see. It was driven by Dora Celli, 42, 200 Mount Lucas Road.

Mr. Kennedy was x-rayed at Princeton Hospital for contusions on the side of his head. Ermaline Procaccini, 49, of Kingston, a passenger in the Celli car, received lacerations of the forehead and contusions of the nose. Ptl. David T. Potts made no charges.

SKI CLUB ACTIVE

Busy Summer Schedule Set. The Princeton Ski Club has begun plans for an active summer program of sailing, canoeing, outings, and BYO barbecues. Already scheduled are: a Saturday, July 11 hike, swim, and picnic day at Sunfish Pond and a BYO barbecue at one of the member's homes for Wednesday, July 15.

Coordinators now are also working on arrangements for next ski season with eight days of skiing planned in Aspen, Col. from March 6 to 15. Registration deadline for the trip is Sunday, July 12. For more information call: Tom Landsberg at 921-6825 or Bebe Blakeman at 896-1331.

FIREMEN SET CLAM BAKE

"All You Can Eat." The Montgomery Township Volunteer Fire Company No. 2 will hold its Annual Clam Bake from noon until 5 p.m., on Saturday, July 11, at Johnson Moore's Grave on Spring Hill Road located just off County Route 518.

The Bake, to be held rain or-shine, will include a menu of: clams on the half shell, clam chowder, steamed clams, clam broth, and clam fritters. For the less clam-enthusiastic in attendance hamburgs, meatball sandwiches, Lialian sausage, hot dogs, baked beans, fresh Jersey sweet corn, beer, soda and Birch beer will also be available. All preparations and service will be provided by the members of the fire company.

Reservations are not necessary, but it is requested that tickets be purchased in advance. The price is $4.50 for adults and $2 for children under 12 years old. Tickets or added by calling additional information may be obtained by calling James Dawson at 921-8065, James Ajamian at 924-3121 or William Wellemeyer at 466-1793.

SOUND GENERAL ALARM

For Shanty Fire. A general alarm was sounded at 10:30 Tuesday night for a fire in a new construction shanty located on the west side of Fuld Hall at the Institute for Advanced Study on Olden Lane.

Township police report that carpenter tools, saws and power tools in the shed were damaged by the fire which was confined to the shed. The shed was destroyed.

Cause of the blaze was not known, police said. Firemen left the scene at 11 p.m.

COMMISSION URGED

On Cooservation. As the result of a study on land utilization, the West Windsor League of Women Voters has urged the Township to form a conservation commission.

The purpose of the commission would be to encourage intelligent use of natural resources. The league feels that urban and industrial growth are encroaching on the township, and wooded areas, ponds and open space in general will be lost if steps are not taken to protect them.

It points out that enabling legislation providing for the establishment of conservation commissions was passed by the legislature two years ago, and that to date more than 62 municipalities, including Princeton Township, Montgomery

Hopewell and Lawrence, have established such a commission.

An advisory body, a conservation commission is appointed by the Mayor and includes one member of the Planning Board. No funds are required to set it up. It may prepare an inventory of the Township's natural resources, present educational programs in the schools, accept gifts of land and make recommendations for land purchase. The league has offered its support in setting up a commission.

YLVISAKER NAMED

To Join Princeton Faculty. The appointment to its tenure faculty of Dr. Paul N. Ylvisaker, former New Jersey Commissioner of Community Affairs, who is considered one of the nation's foremost urban affairs practitioners, has been announced by Princeton University. Effective September 1, he will become Professor of Public Affairs and Urban Planning.

At the same time, the University revealed a major new two year program leading to the degree of Master in Public Affairs and Urban Planning, a cooperative venture of the Woodrow Wilson School of Public and International Affairs and the School of Architecture and Urban Planning. Prof. Ylvisaker's appointment marks the first time in the history of the two professional schools that they have made a joint faculty appointment.

An estimated 10 to 15 men and women, some of whom will transfer from related graduate programs in the University are expected to become initial candidates for the new degree in the fall.

Dr. Ylvisaker will play a prominent role in the new advanced-degree program which is aimed at preparing students for key positions in public and private careers involving the formulation of plans and policies in urban areas with particular — but not exclusive — emphasis on the problems of physical development. He also will work closely with undergraduates, including off-campus programs, one of which will involve full-time work in Newark by about a dozen Princeton juniors.

Home Is in Cranbury. A resident of Cranbury, Prof. Ylvisaker, 48, has been a visiting professor at Princeton at various times since 1961 and this past academic year was Senior Fellow in Public and International Affairs in the Woodrow Wilson School. He began his teaching career at Bethany College in 1943, taught subsequently at Harvard, and, from 1948 until 1955, was on the faculty of Swarthmore College.

As Director of Public Affairs and, later, Vice-President of The Ford Foundation, he has been a leading source of social innovation involving the public sector. In 1967-70 he served New Jersey as Commissioner of Community Affairs.

He recently was named by Newark mayor-elect Kenneth A. Gibson to head a 100-day task force to map programs for changing the "face" of that city. Dr. Ylvisaker is also expected to continue an association with The Ford Foundation.

The new two-year master's degree program was announced by Deans John P. Lewis, of the Woodrow Wilson School, and Robert L. Geddes, of the School of Architecture and Urban Planning.

"By combining the two fields of study, the two schools believe they can provide future professionals with the necessary skills to bridge the gap between the urban program policy-maker and the physical planner," the deans pointed out. The new approach will complement the existing master's degree program in architecture and urban planning offered by the School of Architecture and Urban Planning.

At present the graduate program in public affairs provides students with education in applied social science to prepare them for positions of responsibility in the formulation and execution of public policies; while graduate study in architecture and urban planning offers a solid foundation in urban design theory and methods with an emphasis on the application of the social sciences and their methods to the analysis of urban problems and the development of solutions.

The new program, in addition to combining the "core" courses from both the Master in Public Affairs and the Master in Architecture and Urban Planning programs, will also provide opportunities for training in major urban policy areas such as transportation, housing, education, and health, as well as considerable exposure to "real world" problems through urban policy and planning workshops, and through work-study opportunities.

REFERENDUM PASSES

For West Windsor High School. Voters in West Windsor Township and Plainsboro Tuesday voted 781 to 204 in favor of a $6.7 million referendum that authorizes construction of a 1,360 student high school.

The voters also approved — by a 704 to 368 margin — a second proposal that calls for the construction of a $218,000 swimming pool in place of one of four gymnasiums. The pool referendum was contingent on a "yes" vote on the school.

By municipality, the vote for the high school was 657 to 173 in West Windsor and 124 to 31 in Plainsboro. In the latter community, the swimming pool proposal lost by one vote, 77-76, with two absentee ballots still not counted.

Free to go ahead, the West Windsor Plainsboro Regional School Board hopes to award construction contracts in March and to open the high school in September, 1972.

Passage, of course, means that residents will have to dig a little deeper in their pockets. The increase in the school tax, based on assessed property value, will be $1.06 in Plainsboro per $100 of assessed value and 74 cents per $100 in West Windsor. Each community, however, differs slightly in the manner in which it computes assessement value.

The school referendum authorizes the board to purchase 51 acres of land located at the intersection of Princeton Hightstown Road and Clarksville-Grovers Mill Road as the construction site.

The pool with a removable air-supported dome is designed for indoor and outdoor use. Robert C. Duncan, board president, has commented that the communities could use the pool during the summer months and in winter when school is not in session.

Obituaries

Erich von Kahler, 84, of 1 Evelyn Place, died June 28 in Princeton Hospital. A native of Prague, Czechoslovakia, he came to Princeton in 1938 as one of the group of distinguished European refugees (the late Dr. Albert Einstein among them) who fled Germany and Adolf Hitler to settle in this community.

Mr. von Kahler left Germany for Switzerland in the early 1930s, and there he met the novelist, Dr. Thomas Mann. The latter also made Princeton his home prior to his death.

In the United States, Mr. von Kahler taught at Black Mountain College, Cornell, Ohio State and Princeton Universities. He was a lecturere here in 1955 and a visiting professor from 1960 to '62. Last year he received an honorary LL.D. degree from Princeton in recognition of his "accomplishments as historian, philosopher and humanist."

Mr. von Kahler was also at one time a member of the Institute for Advanced Study. He was the author of "Man the Measure," "The Tower and the Abyss," "The Meaning of History" and "The Orbit of Thomas Mann."

At the time of his death, he had been working on an edition of his correspondence with Dr. Mann, to be published in German. He had also completed a volume on literary criticism to be published by Princeton University Press.

Mr. von Kahler is survived by his wife, Alice, and a step-daughter, Hanna Loewy, of New York. A private funeral service was held, with burial in Princeton Cemetery.

News Of The CHURCHES

CLERGYMAN NAMED

To Trinity Church. The Rev. Joseph S. Harrison became associate vicar of Trinity Episcopal Church and director of Christian Education on Wednesday. He fills the post left vacant when the Rev. Reuel S. Kaighn became rector of St. John's Church, Montclair, on January 1.

For the past seven years, the Rev. Mr. Harrison has been senior assistant at St. Paul's Church in Westfield, responsible for the highly-regarded church school program, the largest in the Episcopal Dioceses of New Jersey. He has also been involved with youth programming. He directed the Youth Conference program of the Diocese of Central New York for five years.

Born in White Mills, Pa., and educated at Allegheny College and the Boston University School of Theology, the Rev. Mr. Harrison's early ministry was in the Methodist Church. He then served as minister-in-charge of two Episcopal congregations in central New York.

He is married to the former Jean Staffeld and they have four children, one girl and three boys ranging in age from 7 to 17. They will live in the rectory at 22 Stockton Street.

This Sunday, the Rev. Mr. Harrison will preach at 9 a.m. in All Saints' Chapel, Van Dyke Road, and at Trinity at 11. A simple reception will be held for the Harrisons on the Trinity lawn following the service.

INSTALLATION SET

For William Kight. The Rev. William N. Kight will be installed as minister to youths by the Presbyterian churches of Princeton at Sunday's 10 a.m. summer union service in First Presbyterian Church.

The Rev. Harold A. Thomas, minister of Witherspoon Street Presbyterian Church, will preach the sermon. His topic is "Everyman's Shoes."

Participants in the installation will be the Rev. Dr. Donald M. Meisel and the Rev. Mac C. Wells of first Church and the Rev. F. Hugh Liffiton of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church.

An elder from each church will also take part: Julius Scott of Witherspoon, Ralph Bloom of St. Andrew's and William B. Lawder of First Church.

The Rev. Mr. Kight has conducted an informal street ministry among Princeton youth since the fall of his first term as a student at Princeton Theological Seminary. He has been a part of such youth activities as The Tomb at First Church, the St. Andrew's youth dances and The Catacomb at Trinity Episcopal Church.

He has served as an assistant at St. Andrew's and Trinity churches and is a member of the committee on drugs formed by the Princeton Regional Board of Education.

VOLUNTEERS CALLED

By Interfaith Unit. The task force on concerns for the individual, a unit of the Princeton Interfaith Council, circulated an appeal this week for volunteers at two community institutions, Princeton Hospital and the New Jersey Neuropsychiatric Institute, Skillman.

services, seven days a week, in two-to-three hour shifts between 9 a.m. and 9:15 p.m.

Men are especially needed to talk to male patients at Merwick and wheel them through the garden, and at the hospital to wheel patients. Mrs. Deborah Livingston is director of volunteers at the hospital.

NJNPI has many needs. It has a shop that has never been used and is seeking men with knowledge of woodworking to contribute time with patients, under the direction of an occupational therapist. Mrs. Quay, 466-1047, is director of volunteers.

BULLETIN NOTES

Summer Intime Opener Most Pleasing

IN TENNESSEE WILLIAMS' WORLD: John Vennema and Deborah Savadge appear in "The Eccentricities of a Nightingale," which has opened Summer Intime's season.

News Of The THEATRES

There is some very beautiful playing at Theatre Intime this summer, playing that should not be missed.

Summer Intime has begun its season with a production of "The Eccentricities of a Nightingale" by Tennessee Williams, that gentle, haunted poet of broken life. The production will be repeated July 9, 10, and 11 at Murray Theatre, and is an experience studded by muscular, controlled, tense acting, acting with tendons and flesh.

There is a kind of tragedy that begins not with what occurs but with what does not occur, with evanescence and the eternity that follows the disappearance of the possible. It leads inevitably to the tragedy of emptiness, of the faded, the frightened away. The grief of the person who is forever tentative is a grief that is not communicated; it is not shared.

But it is here, in Tennessee Williams' perfect sensibilities of the smallnesses of people's lives, perhaps the least bearable of human flaws. And there is no world that clarifies this flaw better than the one we see here: in Williams' language, love is an eternal affliction of the lonely soul.

A Nightingale Sings. Alma Winemiller is a girl who acts as though she were full of sparrows, talking too much and too animatedly, dramatizing the commonplace romantic cliches of the heavy South. She is "The Nightingale of the Delta" who sings everywhere but at the conception of infants."

She is the mirror image of the mechanical bird girl, one owned by her runaway aunt's paramour in his traveling Musee Mechanique: when she is turned on, birds emerge from her mouth at intervals, and they sing. But Alma sings as a defense, because she is otherwise lost in a world without visible directions for survivial.

Here, the crime of the world, visited on the afraid, is loneliness, and it is compounded by a more human crime: love without return. Alma seals herself into lovelessness by desiring the brilliant young doctor who lives next door; he does not and will not love her. The love Alma gives is exactly that kind which cannot be returned; like Alma's singing, it is given in self defense, and that is tragic.

Dr. Buchanan, victimized additionally by the love of a Super Mother, who jealously guards him from the eccentric Alma, is not even possible or tentative as a lover. But he is gentle and piteous, solicitous of Alma's feelings, and trapped, too, though not so desperately as she.

"Over-Brimming Beauty." There are few roles better-suited to the over-brimming beauty of Deborah Savadge, who acts Alma with feelings and touching sensitivity to that which is within, fighting for life. Mark Capri begins his first season in Princeton with an incredibly voiced and full playing of John Buchanan, Jr.

This couple makes these roles vital, full of sensitivities to those deeper parts of human struggling that at their most successful can barely contain the deepest cries of sorrow and waste. Together they cause many moments when the witness can only sit back, saying, "That's beautiful."

William Hootkins and Giulia Pagano play Alma's parents: he, a minister who bears the cross of marriage to a madwoman preoccupied with the tragedy of her sister's death literally in the flames of love. She is perhaps too mad, and he, perhaps too severe, lacking together the softer touches that would make Alma's web of overwhelming melancholy more gently, and therefore more deeply, enfolding. But there are no weaknesses in this cast.

Alice White is a smotherer, a spider, a human swamp from which her son is unrecoverable. The less major roles of John Vennema, Richard Ferrugio, Roo Brown, Sonja McClellon and Andrew Bloch are played with an excellence we have seen before and admire fully.

This is a flawed play, however, given an unflawed production. The perfections of characterization are not matched by Williams' final actions. Alma's fate is almost an absurd projection; but it is not outside the world we can see elsewhere in the playwright's imagination. The direction of Daniel Berkowitz, the settings of Richard B. Williams and the lighting of William Burd are uniformly fine and wholly coherent.

One sees here the unfair proportions that mark the lives of those who love without hope, in an eternity that is full of birdsong: dissonant, unmusical, solitary.

— David Carr

"RIGOLETTO" IS NEXT

At Open Air Theatre. The Princeton Opera Association will present Verdi's melodic "Rigoletto" Friday and Saturday, July 10 and 11, in the theatre at Washington Crossing State Park. Curtain time is 8:30.

Igor Chicagov is director and accompanist. Soprano Veronica Kusmin will sing the role of Gilda. Eduardo Assali is Rigoletto and Efrem Ping is the duke, whose "La donna e mobile" is almost invariably greeted with applause. Eileen Young sings the part of Giovanna and Adele Young will appear as Magdalena.

Continuing this Thursday and Friday at the Open Air Theatre is the Pennington Players' presentation of the musical "Milk and Honey."

"Rigoletto" will be repeated on July 17 and 18. The company will also perform the opera in Trenton's Columbus Park on July 25 and in Cadwalader Park on August 1.

IRISH DRAMA TO OPEN

At Murray Theatre. It is the sheer exuberance of the language of John M. Synge's "The Playboy of the Western World" that makes it one of the great plays of the classical repertory. Summer Intime will present the drama this weekend, beginning on Thursday, and again on July 16, 17, 18, in air-conditioned Murray Theatre on the university campus. Curtain time is 8:30.

According to Irish-born director Brendan Burke, "Playboy" is "one of the most beautiful plays to have come out of Ireland, and the masterpiece of its author. It is comic, tragic, bitter and passionate with a flow of words as rich and powerful as the waves that crash on the West coast of Ireland, which is the setting of the play."

Mr. Burke has concentrated on this quality of sound in the Summer Intime production, the sound of the accent of the people of Western Ireland, with their distinctive rhythm and

IT'S NEW To Us

SIGNS OF THE TIMES

At Center Sports. Little girls. You never know about them, however affectionately you regard the ones closest to home.

A little girl bought three long, rubber worms at Center Sports last week in the Princeton Shopping Center. Not perhaps what you'd expect her to buy, but then times are changing.

"She's taking them to camp with her — along with her fishing rod," reports Jack Petrone, one of Center Sports' owners. "She'll cut them up bit by bit, and make them last 'till she comes back."

The girls are also going for the sleek little swimsuits that Center stocks in abundance. These are double-lined nylon tank suits, in solid shades, or prints, or solid colors accented by striped panels. ($6.95 $10.95)

"We're the sort of store that carries just about everything in the sporting line," Mr. Petrone says, looking around at the fishing rods, golf clubs, outdoor games, physical fitness gadgets and swimming accessories.

"Quoits are almost a lost art," he adds, "but they're coming back!" You'll find the 2½-lb. metal quoits at Center Sports. The $10.95 set includes four quoits and two target hubs.

It used to be darts, but now the kids go for "Jarts," which feature a small missle that you throw. A great game for picnics.

Badminton sets now come supplied with a volley ball as well as a shuttlecock, so that sporty types can use the net for either game.

We found fishing rods at Center Sports for anyone age 5 right up to the family's retiree. Brands include Berkley and Garcia; all are for fresh water fishing.

The fly-tying kits are intriguing, to say the very least. Made by Noll, a firm that can tie a pretty effective fly itself, the kits contain beautiful feathers, twine, snippers and glue. The beginner gets easy, illustrated instructions. Kit No. 80 is the big one for the pros. Prices range from $8.95 to $10.95. We never see a fishing fly, designed to lure the unsuspecting trout, that we don't see its great possibilities as an ornament. Without the hook, of course.

If weight is your problem, or underweight, Center Sports has the entire Voit line of gadgets for exercises. These include the slimming weight belt that you hitch around

It's New To Us

The starter sets of clubs for soon-to-be golfers are reasonably priced and thoughtfully selected. Center Sports has the full line of Wilson clubs, with aluminum or steel shafts. MacGregor is also represented. The golf bags by Atlantic and Wilson, range from $8.95 up to $60.

On July Fourth, an outdoor game or two may be on the schedule at your family picnic, so here's a list of the games today's youngsters pine for as they peer at the walls and shelves at Center Sports:

Frisbee — a good catch pastime on the lawn; all-rubber "playground" balls in 6-inch to 10" sizes — a really popular item at the Center Sports ($3.25 - $4.75); horseshoes - in rubber or steel; volleyballs — the less expensive are rubber, then you move into leather, $5.95 up; tether tennis and tether ball - with a 12" sleeve to insert into the ground for the center pole. ($11.95 & $13.95).

And for the pool — masks, fins, a styrofoam pool seat for the baby, and styrofoam bubbles shaped like a football for the doggie-paddler to wear on his back as he braves the shallow end.

MONKEYWOOD BOWLS

And Portable Grills. Happy House at Princeton Shopping Center has come across a portable grill that is a splendid space saver. Opened out, it is two X-shaped supports for a wedge-shaped metal bin for the charcoal fire. Closed, it is as slim as a match stick and you can cover the center with the green tartan carrying case. (Made by Nasco, $9.95)

Among the many sizes and shapes of hibachi stoves, we spotted a new one — completely round, with barbecue spears standing tall at spaced intervals around the rim. The center of the grill is interestingly cross-barred; the bowl itself shapes suddenly down to a wood-rimmed base. Each skewer is color-keyed so that guests re-use their own.

And for fun, as well as utility, you'll want to explore Happy House's "Ole Pot Belly," which is a cast-iron grill shaped in the same squat mold the black, pot-bellied stoves of yesteryear. Ole Pot Belly, however, is only about two feet high. You could heat a room with it, we'll bet. ($19.95)

Happy House has wicker picnic hampers in several sizes. All that we saw had lids. Also generous aprons — well sloganed — and an excellent selection of long-handled tools for outdoor cookery. The long forks, spoons, and so on, have a small, spoked wheel projecting halfway down the shaft so that the working end is raised when you put it down.

Rich, dark woods are the keynote in wooden accessories for outdoor dining. Happy House has an immense variety, ranging from checkered blocks for cheeses and juice-scored platters to cork topped discs and lazy susans. There are wedged shaped bowls on a lazy susan made of lightly stained monkey pod wood from the Philippines ($15.95), and, from Haiti, three attached bowls carved from one piece of ebony black wood. ($10.95).

From Japan, elegant, slim oval bowls for salads and fruits. These are shallow and very attractive. ($3 each). And from Thailand, deep little bowls with wide, irregular rims, the sides slimming down to cup into the palm of your hand. An age-old design in teak. ($3.50)

Many of the bowls may be slid into the dishwasher. The oriental taiwood with the beautiful interwoven look is among them.

And many of the designs are simple, showing the marvelous wood grains to the greatest advantage. Among these, the lovliest, perhaps, is an almost-square serving bowl of monkey pod wood, fairly shallow and ready to be heaped with a beautiful salad. ($16.95) cadence. He has acted in the play many times and has lived in the play's locale, thus bringing a particular bit of authenticity to the production.

News Of The Theatres

"The Playboy of the Western World" is about young Christy Mahon, a shy lad who appears in a country pub one evening and becomes an instant hero by telling everyone that he has killed his father.

So impressed are the onlookers that he is offered a job immediately, and two beautiful women vie for his love. Some of the play's savage humor caused riots in its first production in Dublin.

Mark Capri is cast in the role of the Playboy. A Stanford student, and a veteran of summer stock, he has spent time in the West of Ireland himself, studying the language of the people. Last week he was John Buchanan in "The Eccentricities of a Nightingale."

Playing Pegeen Mike and the Widow Quinn, the two women who fall in love with the playboy, are Guilia Pagano and Alice White, two members of Sommer Intime who were featured in "Eccentricities" as well.

Director Burk is a member of the McCarter Repertory Company. He staged "The Plough and the Stars" and Pygmalion." He was a guest director at Summer Intime last year, where he presented Shaw's "Heartbreak House."

Film Festival. On the screen this Monday in Summer Intime's summer film festival is Alfred Hitchcock's "Notorious," the 1946 thriller that stars Ingrid Bergman, Gary Grant and Claude Raines.

Tuesday's film is "Our Man

JEAN SEBERG finds herself with two husbands out there in gold rush country in the musical, "Paint Your Wagon," held over at the Garden and Brunswick theatres.

in Havana," an off beat and very funny film written by Graham Greene. The all star cast includes Alec Guinness, Noel Coward, Burl Ives, Ernie Kovacs and Ralph Richardson.

Reminder — the films are scheduled for 8 p.m.; the play's curtain time is 8:30 p.m. The box office at the Murray opens weekdays at 10 a.m. Reservations may be made by calling 452 8181.

Playhouse, Prince, Lincoln

The Out-of-Towners (now playing) isn't going to enhance the careers of Jack Lemmon, Sandy Dennis and playwright Neil Simon any more than it will promote tourism in New York City.

Just promoted to a vice president in his company, Lemman and Miss Dennis are told they have to relocate in New York. On the way, their plane is forced to land in Boston. They finally make it to New York by train, only to find themselves in the middle of a transportation strike and without a hotel room.

Calamity is piled upon misfortune as the two are subsequently mugged, robbed, etc. It's virtually non stop action, but somewhere in all of this, playwright Simon has lost his deft touch for eliciting laughter.

Lemmon, who should be pitied for all his bad luck, becomes so progressively more strident with each venture, it's hard to feel sorry for him. The overall result is mixed. As is the case with "The Out-of-Towners," Lemmon, Miss Dennis and Simon have an off day.

GARDEN and BRUNSWICK

Paint Your Wagon (now playing), a musical by Alan Jay Lerner and Frederick Loewe, has been rescued from 18 years of oblivion in this lavish production from Paramount.

Set in the gold rush days of California, it stars Lee Marvin as the prospector fond of whiskey and loose women, and Clint Eastwood as the lonely character he befriends in Tent City. Jean Seberg plays Marvin's bought-and-paid for wife.

Paddy Chayefsky adapted the musical to the screen. He stresses the growing friendship between Marvin and Eastwood and the loneliness of the men in the all-male community — expressed most eloquently in the beautiful song, "They Call the Wind Maria," which Harve Presnell sings splendidly in his big baritone.

The three stars are not likely to win awards for their singing, but they get by. Eastwood sings the lovely "I Talk to the Trees." There are five new songs, the best of which is "Gold Fever," which Joshua Logan has staged imaginatively in the saloon.

The book emphasizes comedy and softens the romantic angle, a woman with two husbands. The destruction of the town is a spectacular climax. And through it all are marvelous scenes of Oregon's meadows, mountains and rivers photographed by William A. Fraker in color Panavision.

OTHER PAPERS will run your classifieds for half price, or for nothing if they do not sell. In TOWN TOPICS, you'll find more ads and better results.

FOOTBALL CAMP AT HUN

Under Benny Friedman. Probably most of the 71 boys in his camp never heard of him until they heard of his football camp.

But for old time football buffs, the name Benny Friedman brings back a flood of memories. An All-American quarterback during his years (1924-26) at the University of Michigan, he was one of the first throwing quarterbacks to achieve prominence in an era when the forward pass did not dominate the game to the extent it does today.

Later, Friedman became an all-pro with the New York Giants and coached at Yale, CCNY, and Brandeis. Lean and tan, Benny is still throwing the ball — teaching high school and college students the form and skills that carried him to the top.

Benny and four assistants are in Princeton this week conducting a one-week school for quarterbacks and — for the first time this summer — receivers, at the Hun School. There are 71 boys in his class at Hun — the first he has conducted in New Jersey. They came from as far away as Wisconsin and Louisiana. Earlier, he held similar classes in California; in August he will be in Nebraska.

Always the Same Goals: to teach boys how to throw accurately, to learn the importance of timing, quick thinking, proper physical and mental habits. How to gain self confidence and how to keep from getting hurt.

As he was practicing a look-in pass with his chief assistant, Jeff McKay, coach of California Lutheran College, north of Los Angeles, Benny demonstrated that he had lost none of his accuracy or zip through the years.

"If you have form and confidence, there's nothing you can't do," he said. "It's nothing more than habit."

He will return to Hun for a second week August 16-21. His selection of the Hun School facilities was triggered through a mutual friend of his and Dr. Paul Chesebro, the school's headmaster.

Of the boys in the present school, two are from Hun. Alan Chalifoux and Peter Jones of Trenton. Chalifoux, a junior broke into the Hun football lineup as a freshman behind Mike Maguire who has guided the team the past two years. Last season, Chalifoux split his duties between quarterback and end. Jones is a junior who has concentrated on other sports and is going out for football for the first time.

Hun has been tied but undefeated the last three seasons in football. Chances are the Benny Friedman expertise will be evident this fall and Hun may make it four years in a row.

Tiger Quintet Booked Largely for Travel

Princeton's basketball team will play 25 games next winter but only ten of them at home. Inasmuch as seven of these are against Ivy opponents, fans will see just three non-league teams in Jadwin Gym.

Two of them will be here before Christmas — Navy in the home opener on Saturday, December 12, and N.Y.U. two nights later. Davidson, a power in the Southern Conference, will make its first Princeton appearance on Saturday, January 23.

For the first time in a number of years, the Tigers will not play in a holiday tournament. A pre-Christmas trip will take them to St. Louis University, Stanford in Palo Alto, Calif., and Memphis State in Tennessee. Other non-Ivy opponents involving road games are with Duke in the season's opener, Villanova, Fordham, Penn State and Rutgers.

A tough home opener in Ivy action will bring defending champion Penn here Monday, January 4. The season will end with a road trip against Columbia and Cornell the first week in March.

Bill Sickler is captain-elect of the Princetonians, who will be without John Hummer of Buffalo and Jeff Petrie of Portland in the NTL. The unbeaten freshman quintet of the past winter is expected to supply two or three starters for Coach Pete Carril,, who faces a building year at a time when competition is increasingly stiff.

The complete schedule:

Dec. 1, Duke at Greensboro; 5, Villanova at the Palestra; 12, Navy; 14, N.Y.U.; 17, at St. Louis University; 19 at Stanford; 21, at Memphis State.

Jan. 2, at Fordham; 4, Pennsylvania; 8, Harvard at Cambridge; 9, Dartmouth at Hanover; 23, Davidson; 25, at Penn State; 29, at Pennsylvania; 30, at Rutgers.

Feb. 5, Columbia; 6, Cornell; 12, Yale at New Haven; 13, Brown at Providence; 19, Dartmouth; 20, Harvard; 26, Yale; 27, Brown.

Mar. 5, Columbia at New York; 6, Cornell at Ithaca.

TITLE ROUND SUNDAY

In Springdale Golf, Ken Dawes Jr. and John Sienkiewicz will meet in a 36 hole match Sunday for the championship of Springdale Golf Club.

Sienkiewicz reached the finals with a pair of 1-up victories, the second going two extra holes. He eliminated Jim Litvak on the 18th green in the quarter-final round and then edged Kester Pierson on the 20th hole.

Dawes also had a tight match with Jim Blair, whom he defeated 1 up, and then followed with a 4 and 3 triumph over Dick Leibler. The latter had gone an extra hole earlier in the tournament to defeat Eddie Donovan, the medalist. Sunday's winner will succeed Maury Mather as Springdale champion. The 36 holes will be based on match play.

Mather, whom Dawes eliminated in the first round, will face Bob Shillaher for the top spot in the first flight. Mather reached the finals with victories over Bill Quackenbush and Lyle Fitch, the latter by 4 and 3.

Shillaher won from Bill Millman, 1 up, and then by default from Laurence Sanford. Sanford had ousted Jack Sweeney, 3 and 2, despite the fact that the latter shot a two over-par 73. When the match ended on the 16th green, Sanford was even par.

Robert Lewis topped Moore Gates Jr. 5 and 3, to win the second flight. In the semi final round, Lewis eliminated Joe Masick, 3 and 2, while Gates was defeating Karl Pettit, Jr.

Art Sheeran and Harry Hall will play for the victor's bracket in the third flight. Sheeran ousted Peter Denning, 3 and 2, while Hall eliminated Ollie Ross Shrader won the fourth flight, defeating Dick Judge in the finals. Earlier, Shrader had beaten Ralph Mather, 8 and 6, while Judge was a 1 up victor over Bill Pearce.

The winner of the fifth flight will be determined in the match between Asa Farr and Stanley Apple. The latter defeated Nelson Case, 1 up, while Farr was heating Bob Dougherty, 4 and 3. B. E. Bergeron Jr. took the sixth flight when he won over Bill Wilson.

The annual July 4 Firecracker Tournament, composed of mixed foursomes, will be held Saturday.

TWO TEAMS TIED

For First In BSL West. Cities Service outslugged NCA, 14-11, last week and moved into a first place tie with the loser in the western division of the Business Softball League. In the east, McGraw Hill pulled far ther ahead, as its closest pursuer, FMC, was beaten.

Bob Lewis, Jack Sheldon and Al Anderson had three hits apiece for Cities Service in support of winning pitcher Jim Chiorello. Cities pounded out 17 hits in all.

Showing no signs of letting up, McGraw-Hill gave ECA B a merciless beating, 31-2. Mart Michlo had a perfect five for five, including a home run. Tom Wood and Jim Bolletin had four hits each for the winners, who collected 32 hits.

Coupled with McGraw Hill's triumph was a loss by FMC, which dropped it three games behind the leader and into a tie for second with Accelerator. Joe Russo's three for four led ERC to a 12-7 win.

ERC picked up its second win of the week, beating RCA B, 9-3. Ed Paulson and Al Smith each had three for four. The pair of victories gave ERC a winning record at 5-4.

ETS broke a scoreless game with four runs in the fourth inning, and went on from there to defeat American Cyanamid, 6-1. Willie Turner blasted a three run homer for the big blow of the inning, which also saw doubles by Jerry Murphy and Hull Degler. Murphy later walloped a two run homer for the final two tallies. Steve Carter's solo clout in the last inning ruined Jerry Kramer's shutout.

Firmenich scored an upset of sorts when it whipped RCA Astro, 11-8. Bob Pagano and Bob Elkins both had three for four. The win was its second in eight games.

The western division is now down to six teams, with Shell the latest to drop out. Dow Jones left the league just before the season began.

Green has scored the most goals, topping Blue last week, 14-5, and Navy earlier, 12-4. Against Blue, Jon Pettit scored four goals and had five assists. Bob Bashuk also had four and Bob Nichols added three more. Scoring once were Jim Irish, Brian Sullivan and Bob Cooper, the latter having two assists as well. Mike Skinner accounted for three of the losers' five goals.

Cooper's four goals were tops in Green's win over Navy. Mike Cauley, Pettit and Sullivan scored two each. For Navy, Carl Burns, Gary Bashuk, Joe McGuinn and Pat Connelly all scored once.

Red scored in every period to top Navy, 5-2. Fred Barach had two goals for Red and Jim Kopliner, Phil Mathews and Keith Van Arsdalen all had one. Karl Petit and Bob Olson scored Navy's two goals — both coming in the third period.

Earlier, Red edged Blue, 7-5, in the closest game so far. The score was 5-4 at the half with Red on top.

John Steigler, Baruch and Mathews each had two goals for Red, while Mike Skinner and Cole Donaldson had a pair each for Blue.

All games are played Tuesday evenings at Marquana Park. The public is invited.

Asa Bushnell, a Man of Many Hats, Retires

Asa S. Bushnell, most of whose career has been spent in the administration of intercollegiate athletics, retired this week as Commissioner of the 199 member Eastern College Athletic Conference. He lives at 71 Palmer Square.

A member of the Princeton Class of 1921, Bushnell was editor of the Alumni Weekly before serving the University for another 11 years as Graduate Manager of Athletics. In 1938, he became director of the Central Office for Intercollegiate Athletics in New York, forerunner by nine years of the ECAC.

Supervision of schedule-making for member colleges, the handling of officiating appointments in many sports, administration of most of the major championship events in the east and participation in the direction of NCAA college football programs, as well as in the guidance of the U.S. Olympic Committee, have all been a part of Bushnell's activities. In past years, a steady stream of recognition of his achievements has come his way, ranging from honorary college degrees to national awards in a wide variety and major space allocation in "Who's Who in America" — one of the few sports figures so recognized.

In its "Man of the Week" nomination toward the end of the past decade, TOWN TOPICS cited him "for adhering to the basic philosophy he periodically transmits to his officials, 'Serve with maximum efficiency, but always unobtrusively'; for his accomplishments as one of the country's most constructive leaders in the entire area of amateur athletics; and for guiding his organizations with a fine blend of precision and imagination."

While Billy Hill and John Young had 15 each and Ron McEwen, 10.

Four players hit for double figures in the Jet win. Norman Starks leading the list with 16. Lew Carmichael had 11 and Rich Newman, a fine playmaker, 10. Former Princeton High School standout Johony Madden also had 10.

Coach Bob Turner's 16 points paced the losers. Others who added a little magic for the Magicians were Percy Cooper, 13 points, and Al McAllister and Jeff Lowe, 11 each.

BEDENS BROOK WINS

Tops Brooktree in Swimming. A 51-40 victory over the Brooktree Club opened the season last week for the Bedens Brook swimming team. The victors were ahead by only four points until they won the final relay.

Major point winners for Bedens Brook were Doug Ferguson, Ted Stabler, Jeff Lyle, Mike Hill, Sue Ross, Beth Ross, and Alice Rodgers. The Cranbury Swimming Club will provide the opposition in the next meet.

LUCAR TAKES PLAYOFF

In Babe Ruth Baseball. Lucar Hardware defeated the Lions Club, 8-3, in a playoff last week to win the first-half championship in the West Windsor Babe Ruth Baseball League. The game became necessary when both teams finished the first half of the schedule tied for first place with 4-2 records.

Gary Fowler was the winning pitcher for Lucar, limiting the Lions to five hits and striking out five. Denny Clark was the losing hurler.

Lucar opened the scoring in the second inning with two runs on two walks and a double by Jeff Drummond. The Lions picked up one run in the fourth on an error, a fielder's choice and a single by Roger Jodon.

The Lions gained a 3-2 lead in the fifth by scoring two runs on an error, a single by Tim Moran and a double by Denny Clark.

Lucar came back in the bottom of the fifth to score three runs on Mike Hutchinson and

Do you want to believe in God?

You can. Not just because of what someone says about God. But because of what you yourself can learn and prove about divine Love.

Like the woman who was instantly freed by an assailant one night — when she turned to God in prayer. Or the entertainer whose back was healed through prayer after he was told he couldn't walk without surgery.

These individuals found that divine Love meets even the most challenging human needs. . . that powerful spiritual laws are available for anyone to use.

You can learn more of these laws by reading this week's Bible Lesson.

Sports In Princeton

Jim Mellor singled and Wes McClain hit a double, along with a walk to Kevin Tvlus. The winners put the game on ice in the sixth by adding three more runs as Hutchinson again singled, McClain and Mellor walked and Drummond hit his second double of the game.

HAC WINS FIRST

Teague & Hinds Still Perfect. Harrison Athletic Club's first win of the season, a Pier 6, 16-15 brawl with the Outlaws, and two more victories by undefeated Teague & Hinds, both by one-run margins, highlighted play last week in the Princeton Recreation Softball League.

George Gallup was instrumental in fashioning HAC's win. He connected for two doubles and a pair of singles, scored twice and batted in the tying runs in the bottom of the seventh. In all, the victors pounded out 16 hits to end a six-game slump.

Just one behind in both departments, the Outlaws combined 15 hits for their 15 runs. Three — a single, double and triple — were off the bat of Rich Volz, former PHS player.

Ivy Inn took over sole possession of second place with two wins — 9-4 over Varsity Sport Shop, and 8-4 over Nassau Conover Motors. Dave Britton's bat paced Ivy in both contests.

Against Varsity, he rapped two hits and scored two runs as Dick McCloskey, who aided his cause with two timely hits, picked up the win. Britton duplicated his two-hit, two-run performance against Nassau Conover, while Bruce Sandvik and Tony Boccanfuso each had a pair of hits for the losers. A four-run fifth inning by Ivy was the difference.

Varsity earned a split for the week when it defeated HAC in its first game, 11-3. Left fielder Jerry Perpetua homered, singled and scored twice for Varsity.

Teague & Hinds, which saw its hitting desert it but not its defense, edged Nassau Conover, 1-0, in eight innings. In the eighth, George Tucker singled and moved to second on a fly ball. He advanced to third when the return throw got by the infielder. Bob Bosley then knocked him home for the only run.

Against its season-long rival last year, Conte's Inn, Teague was extended to nine innings before walking off with a close 3-2 decision. After his team tied the score in the seventh, Bob Bosley advanced to third base following three straight hits in the ninth. Al Gordon's long fly brought him home for the win.

25 years in the making.

We'd like to thank the makers of the other new economy cars for giving us such a nice head start.

It gave us time to develop an inspection system so ridiculously scrupulous that it expects every VW to pass 16,000 examinations.

It allowed us to find out (at a reasonably scientific pace) how we could double our horsepower without doubling the cost of your horsepower. (The VW still gets about 26 miles to the gallon and requests only a smidgen of oil.)

It permitted us to work on things that didn't even have to do with the actual making of the car. Medi-car, the Volkswagen Diagnosis System, for example. Electronic equipment that can spot trouble in a car before it gets to be trouble. When you buy a new VW, you get 4 free Medi-car checkups.

Of course, it took great fortitude to resist squandering our time on phony styling improvements.

The beetle looks just as good (or bad) as it did 25 years ago.

Don't Cook Out Inside

If the rain begins to fall on your cook-out this summer, don't move the grill and burning charcoal briquettes into an enclosed area.

Dr. James R. Cowan, State Commissioner of Health, points out that large quantities of carbon monoxide gas are released by burning charcoal, which can result in severe poisoning or death.

The Commissioner said briquettes are safe to use outdoors if reasonable care is exercised, but enclosed areas with little ventilation such as garages should be avoided. Carbon monoxide gas is invisible, orderless and tasteless.

COMMUNITY BAND MEETS

To Plan Summer Programs. The Princeton Community Band is meeting regularly for the summer to begin preparations for its program series. Any interested adults and students who wish to play concert band music are urged to call director George Soete at 921-7519.

The first concert, consisting of marches, show tunes and other selections by American composers, will be presented at 8 p.m. this Friday on the front campus of Princeton High School.

FOLK SONG PROGRAM SET

For Family Fun Thursday. The Princeton Recreation Department will sponsor a family folk singing program from 7 to 8 p.m., on Thursday evenings, at Grover Park.

This Thursday, Mrs. Nancy Sensenbach will present the program. Mrs. Sensenbach has a background in music education, and teaches and sings in the Princeton area.

LIBRARY HOURS CHANGE

For Summer Lending Plans. Beginning the first week in July, the Princeton Public Library will follow a summer schedule.

The library will be closed Saturdays during July, August and the first week in September. For the Independence Day holiday, the library will be closed all day this Friday.

Summer hours for the Adult Departments are: 9 a.m. to 9 p.m., Monday through Thursday and 9 a.m. through 5:30 p.m. Friday. Children's Department schedule runs 9 a.m. to 9 p.m. Mondays only and 9 a.m. through 5:30 p.m. Tuesday to Friday.

Books and other library materials may be returned to the Library through the Book Drop located next to the parking yard, whenever the building is closed.

EARLY CLOSING SET

On July 3 for Post Office. Postmaster John L. Dilworth has announced that window service on Friday, will be provided from 8 a.m. through 12 Noon only as part of rescheduling for July 4.

On Saturday, mail will be received and dispatched in accordance with holiday schedules. Collections from street letter boxes will be made on Palmer Square and in front of the main post office.
